The journey of making this "ATTENDANCE - CSE (DATA SCIENCE)" was my toughest journey of building any website or application. It was a journey that started from zero – with very little knowledge of frontend development, basic HTML, basic CSS, and just like a grain of sand on a beach, a tiny bit of SQL and DBMS. I had participated in only one hackathon, won just one ideathon by a fluke, and after our 4th semester results were published, got a backlog in Maths – a subject in which I once used to call myself a genius. This is a rough picture of my mental state when I was building this project.

Okay, you might say that AI tools are already out there and they helped me – I won't claim I didn't use them. Of course I did. I used Antigravity,
